MASTER'S DEGREE IN

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

CLASSE DI LAUREA
LM-52 INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Course of Study

The Master Degree in International Relations is aimed at training a facilitator-mediator skilled in the internationalization process of business, non-profit, NGOs and public institutions. The course is designed to train graduates with a solid multidisciplinary background, which is essential for analyzing and interpreting the issues related to the international dimension of economic, political and social phenomena, and with a distinct attitude for dialogue, mediation and conflict resolution. After the first common year with a strong multidisciplinary connotation, students need to choose between two distinct curricula: one in “Economic and Cultural Integration”, more in line with the professional profiles of market analyst and marketing technician, and the other in “Security and Diplomacy”, more suitable for specialists and analysts in international relations.

Job Opportunities

A professional figure who can offer a competent reading of the international and foreign countries scenarios and is also able to develop and organize the process of internationalization of public and private institutions. The graduates in International Relations can find employment in mid and top positions preferentially in institutions operating on the market or in international contexts, in private local, national or multinational companies, within the framework of state administrations and, in particular, international intergovernmental or non-governmental organizations, including those active in development cooperation.
